M. C. Chawronn, Jonesbore, Circuit Judge—Mr. Trawford declined to give his preferences, and said he ad no choice, in fact. His delegation understand him a favor Davis first and Tilden next.

Dr. S. L. Chener, Harrisburg, physician, is a green-ack advocate, favoring repeal of Resumption law, and would profer Hendricks or a Western man, but any find it necessary to support Tilden in concession a other interests. Will probably voto—first, Hen-ricks and next Tilden.

The four delegates at large are John Bratton, General M. C. Butler, D. W. Aiken and J. D. Kenneuv.

slegates from this district are Measrs. J. S. 1803 and J. D. MacLucas. Both gentlemen RICHARDSON and J. D. MACLUCAN. Both gentlemen are non-committal, and decline to express any preference, but they declare their readiness to support any candidate who shall appear at St. Louis to combine the most elements of success before the people of all sections of the country. Under the circumstances, and other things being equal, they will be decided for liden by the force of the majority of their colleagues.

phatte for Tilden, and will stand by him at St. Louis with indefatigable resolution. They have not considered it necessary to seek a second choice, as they express the confident belief that Tilden will go brough with a rush, not only before the Convention, wat before the people.

General S. McGoway and Captain W. B. STANLEY represent this district, and express a decided preference for the Chevalier Bayard, of Delaware, but hold themselves ready to relinquish him for Tilden should like inter appear to be the more available candidate. Bayard, indeed, is only their sentimental and personal layorite, and it is easily understood that practically they are for Tilden, as he will surely out poll Bayard at St. Louis on any and every ballot.

The Fourth district sends to St. Louis ex-Governor B. F. Parray, a man of national reputation, and J. H. Eviss, of whom both are decided Tilden men, without a second choice or a lear that any ascond choice will be needed in the Convention. They declare that they will vote for Tilden first and last.

will be nosded in the Convention. They declare that they will vote for Tilden first and last.

J. O. Sheppend and Colonel William Elliott are the delegates from this district, and they are so decidedly for Tilden that they unreservedly avow their conviction that his nomination is an absolute necessity of the situation to assure democratic success in the election and a reformation of the government. They have no hope that any other leader can marshal the democracy and patriotism of the country to victory. They, consequently, have no second choice.

The South Carolina delegation, it will thus be seen, nonsist of fourteen members, four from the State at large and ten from the five districts—each district having two delegates. The four delegates at large and the itx delegates from the Second, Fourth and Firth districts—making ten in all—are avowedly for Tilden now and all the time. The First district awasts develop ments at St. Louis, and the Third expresses a preference for Bayard. All, however, personally prefer Bayard, but none have any hope of his nomination, and none have any expectation that he could be elected if nominated. On the first ballot Bayard may receive some complimentary votes from the delegation, but it will subsequently go solidly for Tilden. The character of this delegation is so high that, notwithstanding the fact that there is no hope to carry the State for any ticket named at St. Louis, its members will exert a strong influence in the Convention, particularly among the Southern delegates.

It is to be observed in regard to this delegation that it includes the alternates in its organization, one of them being chairman, and doubtless these will have it is ascertained that a majority of the alternates are

ALABAMA.

STLDEN'S STRENGTH IN THE DELEGATION-THIBTEEN FOR THE NEW YORK GOVERNOR.

Montgower, June 23, 1875.

The democracy of Alabama send twenty delegates to Bt. Louis, four for the State at large and sixteen for the eight districts. This delegation appears to be greatly mixed as to preference, and some of the delegates are for Tilden and some for Hancock, Hendricks and Thurnon. However, of the twenty delegates thirtoen are smphatic for Tilden, and only three for Hendricks, two for Hancosk and two for Thurman. This delegation comprises some able and distinguished men, among hem being ex-Governor Shorter and General L. Pope

The delegates at large are four in number, and of sees General L. Pors Walkers, of Huntsville; C. C. Amgron, of Mobile, and Jony T. Morgan, of Selma, are LANGDON, of Mobile, and JORN T. MORGAN, of Selma, are all decidedly for Tilden and will use every effort to carry the delegation with them. Ex-Governor Ell S. Shonten, of Eufaula, is for Hendricks, but will compromise for the second place on the tacket for that gentleman, and will not utterly refuse to support Tilden for the first place.

The delegation from this district consists of Measrs. John Modures and F. S. Lyon, Mr. McGuire is for Tilden because he believes him to be the choice of a majority of the Northern democrats and the man most likely to carry the State of New York and defeat Hayes. In these views his colleague heartily concurs, and neither of them name any second choice.

This district is divided. Mr. H. M. CALDWELL is for Tilden first and last, while Mr. W. W. SCRENS is for Eendricks, the latter believing that the nomination of Awestern man by the democrats. Tilden and Hendricks, however, or Hendricks and Tilden, will satisfy this delegation.

The Third district is solidly and fixedly for Tilden.

tricks, however, or hendricks and liness, will satisfy this delegation.

This Third district is colidly and fixedly for Tilden.

dr. J. N. Arainotox sees in Tilden the only hope of his party and his country. Mr. F. Warkins has an abiding faith that the great New York reformer is destined to reform the national government. Both are confident that Tilden ought to be and will be nominated and that his election is assured.

The delegates from this district are Messrs. C. L. Scorr and S. W. Pattos, who are decidedly for Tilden and for nobody elsa. They expect that Tilden will be nominated on the first or second ballot by a two-third rote, and will in no event abandon him while there is loope.

rote, and will in no event abanden him while there is hope.

From the Fifth district the delegates are Messrs. E. H. Mosses and H. H. Ashermoso, and they are for the gallant soldier, Hancock, of Pennsylvania, believing him a true man, who can be elected if nominated, and one whose record and character should raily to his standard the patriots of all parties and all sections. This delegation, however, stance alone in its advocacy of Hancock and will no doubt defer to the voice of the majority of the delegates from the State.

SEXTR. DISTRICT.

Messrs. M. L. STANELL and N. N. CLEMENTS represent this district, and concur in believing fillen to be the man for the times. They will support him from first to last, and are confident that he will be nominated.

SEVENTE DISTRICT.

This district is the only one in the State whose delegates are Messrs. P. B. KYLE and W. A. HANDLY, who think that the nomination of Hayes, of Ohio, by the republicans, would be more than checkmated by the nomination of Thurman, of Ohio, by the democrats. These delegates are not obstinate, and will be guided much by developments at St. Louis.

KHORTE DISTRICT.

This district delegation is divided, Mr. Joux Shop-

MISSISSIPPL

THE DELEGATION FOR TILDEN.

The Democratic-Conservative Convention of Mississippi met on the 14th inst., in this city, to appoint which meets at St. Louis on the 27th inst., and to Elect electors.

I have succeeded in ascertaining the views of most of the delegates, alternates and electors, and also those of a few prominent men, as to who should head the national democratic ticket in its race for the White House. The delegation was by resolution instructed to vote as a unit upon all questions. The Convention also instructed its representatives to vote against the re-adoption of the two-thirds rule.

General W. S. Fratherston expresses no choice for individual candidates. He is for "the strongest man who can be brought forward, the semocrat who is sound in his political views, and who combines all the elements of strength and success. I cannot say now who will be the strong man, but will wait until I get to St. Louis and interchange opinions with delegates from other States. As to platform I am in favor hard money, a currency convertible into gold and silver or based on gold and silver. But I am not in favor of any sudden move in that direction. The change can only be brought about gradually in order to avoid bankruptcy and general ruin to all the interests of the country. We can only get back to a sound constitutional currency by gradual approaches. Any other policy would be hazardous and ruinous. I am in favor of moving, however, in that direction as rapidly as the best interests of the country will permit."

General Fratherston—is an old line democrat, an ex-Congressman, ex-Confederate brigadier general, and was Chairman of the Ames Improachment Committee in the last Legislature. He is a lending lawyer.

Mr. A. E. Lawis—First choice. Tiden. His nomination will secure us New York—a full nock in the start. He is for reform, proving his faith by hard work, backed by a moral courage certainty unique in this age; for a hard money currency; the best and most available candidates now in the field, and will make a just and national Frandent. Second choice, Hendricka. Third choice, Hancock. Mr. Lewis is an old line democrat, a large planter and lumberman on the Gulf coast.

General E. C. Walthall—First choice, Tilden, on account of his fitness and availability. No second or third choice; for Tiden all the way through. In reply to the question, "Are you in layor of a hard or soit money pittform?" General Malthall said:—"As between the two, hard money," General Walthall is an ex-Confederate major genera, he is an old line democrat, a large planter of layor.

Judge Lock E. Houston—First choice, Samuel J. Tilden. Second choice, Thomas F. Bayard. Third choice, Thurman. I am in favor of hard money, but opposed to contraction just now. Judge Houston is an old line whig—i. e., conservative. He is a lawyer of ability; has not been upon the bench for years.

James O. Bakes—Views not ascertained. Believed to be for Tilden.

R. H. Allex—First choice, Tilden; because I believe him to be the strongest may apoken of in this copune hard money, a currency convertible into gold and silver or based on gold and silver. But I am not in favor

JAMES C. BANES.—Views not ascertained. Believed to be for Tilden.

R. H. ALLEX.—First choice, Tilden; because I believe him to be the strongest man spoken of in this connection. Second choice, Hendricza. He is, perhaps, the most available man after Tilden. Third choice, Bayard. He is bonest and capable and would be true to all sections and interests of the country. I hope there will be no issue before the Convention on the money question, but adopt the money plank of the Chemnast platform, and make the fight on similatrative reform. Mr. Allen is a merchant and planier, a young man and a Senator in the Legislatures of 1874, 1876 and 1876.

ALEXANDER M CLAYTON—First choice, Tilden. Second choice, Hendricks or Thurman. Third choice, the most available main. I layor a return to specie payments as soon as it can be made. In other words, as soon as the condition of the country will sutherize it. Judge Clayton is a planter and an old line democrat. He was on the Supreme cent prior to the war.

T. W. White—Views not ascertained.

THERD DISTRICT.

WILLIAM R BARKSDAIR—First choice, Tilden. He has shown himself a practical reformer and statistican, devoted to the principles of constitutional Therry and local solf-government. I have no second or third choice. The reasons for abandoning my first choice might produce them. I am in favor of saying as little as possible on the money questies. We must not let the republicans got the advantage of us in platform on the subject; must be as hard money as they are, and as soft money as they are, and equally as explicit. H. L. Jannuax—First choice. Senator Bayard. I prefer him individually, but will be guided by circumstances. I regard him as a statesman of high order, fully representing democratic conservative principles. Second choice, Tiden, of New York, the great reformer, whose record stands as a guarantee for the future. Third choice, Hendricks, a statesman worthy of the confidence and support of the Southern democrata. I am in favor of bard money.

PRASE JOHNSTON—I am for Tilden because he thoroughly identified with the principle of reform, a will stand by him as long as there is hope for his no ination. I think there should be a return to spenyment as soon as possible.

R. C. SAYFOLD—Views not ascertained.

SAYFOLD—Views not ascertained.

L. N. BALDWIN-For Bayard all the way through.

L. N. BALDWIN-For Bayard all the way through.

Wann Hamron, Jr.—Views not ascertained.

The niternates are in favor of the same men and in about the same propertion as are the delegates, withous exception. H. M. Street, Speaker of the House of Representatives, is fur Joel Parker, of New Jersey, for choice after Tilden.

ARMY INTELLIGENCE.

CHTIREMENT OF GENERAL EMOBY-CAVALRY PROMOTIONS.

The bill authorizing the President to retire Colonel William H. Emory, Fifth cavalry, with the rank of brigadier general, having passed both houses, the ne-cessary orders will be issued in a lew days, carrying his name to the list of officers retired under special acts of Congress. General Emory's later services are pretsy generally known. His earlier services were rendered in the artillery, Mounted Rangers and Topographical Engineers. He graduated from "The Point" in the class of 1831, of which only three out of thirty-three class of 1831, of which only three out of thirty-three members are now in the army—viz., Andrew A. Humphreys, No. 13, Chief of Engineers; W. H. Emory, No. 14, and William Chapman, No. 15, Lieutenant Colonel, retired. General Emory has twice severed his connection with the army by resignation, and has twice returned with a higher commission than the one he resigned. In 1836 he relinquished his commission as aigned. In 1836 he relinquished his commission as second lieutenant of artillery. In 1835 he was appointed dirst ficutenant of Topographical Engineers. On May 9, 1861, he threw up his commission as major, First cavalry, and was appointed lieutenant colonel of the Sixth cavairy live days alterward. For some months past he has been on duty in Washington as President of the Retiring Board. His retirement as brigadier general with be $750 per annum in his lavor—the retired pay of a colonel of his length of service being $3,375, and of a brigadier general $4,125.

The following officers will be benefited by General Emory's good forture:—Lieutenant Colonel Wesley Merritt, Ninth cavairy, will take command of the Fifth: Major Elmer Otts, First cavairy, will be promoted lieutenant colonel Ninth cavairy, and Captain George B. Sanford, First cavairy, will succeed to a majority in his own regiment, vice Otia. This will leave the dashing cavairy leader, George A. Caster, the senior leutenant colonel in that arm of the service, and, therefore, the first on the list for promotion.

FRONOTIONS IN THE REDICAL DEPARTMENT.

The bill to reduce the number and increase the efficiency of the medical corps of the army, now before the President for approval, will lead to the promotion of the twelve senior surgeons and twelve senior assistant surgeons as icolows:—

To be Colonels—Majors Joseph J. B. Wright, John M. Cuyler, Charles McCormick and Charles H. Lamb.

To be Lieutenant Colonels—Majors William J. Sloan, William S. King, James Signons, Charles C. Keeney, John F. Hammond and Elisha J. Baily.

These officers have served from twenty-nine to forty-three years each, and have each earned their promotion by length of service.

To be Majors—Captaina Joseph J. Woodward, William H. Yors ood, Ely McClellan, Samuel A. Storrow, William D. Wolverton, Albert Bartsoff, Charles R. Greenleaf, Bolivar Knickerbocker, J. V. D. Middleton, John H. Janeway, Henry R. Tilton and Samuel M. Wen the above promotions shall have been made there will be ten ya ad lieutenant of artillery. In 1835 he was appoint-

BAYARD.

His Views on the Issues of the Present Canvass.

THE DENOCRATIC PARTY LOOKING TO RESUMPTION

Reconciliation the Greatest Need of the Country.

"IF I WERE ON MY DYING BED."

He Would Support Tilden, Thurman or Hendricks.

Senater Bayard lives in a cosey, rather pretty little green slope. As you enter you have to elbow your way through a group of roystoring, merry little child-ren, who are romping on the lawn, and who all remind you strongly of the long, slim face and the dim blue eyes of their father.

"Ab, that ought to give you an additional claim to the Presidency," I returned.

Senator Bayard laughed, but a serious expression seen overspread his lace. "No," said he, "I often think that a public man should have no children at all think that a public man should have no children at all to be able to devote himself wholly to the good of his country." And, he added, with much feeling, "It was beautifully said of Washington, you know, that he had no children so that the whole country might be his child. A public man should not have all the domestic cares incident to a large family to divert his attention from the welfare of his fellow men."

After incidental conversation of the same sort I stated to the Senator the Herallo's desire to lay before the world his views on the various interesting questhe world his views on the various interesting ques-tions involved in the present canvass. After expres-sing his extreme rejuctance to "exploit" his own views, as he said, at this juncture, when their motive might be misinterpreted, he soon entered with his wouldd earnestness into those broad questions which enter into the contest without bearing upon its personalities.

looking to an independent, a third party?

"There is in this country," said he, "a large body of citizens who have the simplest aspirations for good government, who wish to see peace, prosperity and honor the ruling indusences of the land, and they design man for conditions who sire men for candidates who fitly represent such senti-ments. Yet this class of men have shrunk too much monts. Yet this class of men have shrunk too much from the rough contact of actual politics, by which they have nearly lost all inducate with the two great parties. The consequence is that their plans are apt to be thwarted by the machinery of conventions. I believe that this class of men who are disinterested in the results of political conventions, except in so far as they bear upon the good government of the country is now larger in the ranks of both parties, and that their vote is now of greater importance than it was ever before in the history of the country. Moreover, I believe that the necessity of their exercising a restraining inducence upon both parties is now better known to them, as well as to the whole country, than it was ever beto the organization of a third party."

"And what would be its chances of at

"Ot electing their candidates none. But I do believe that there are more of these men who will leave the republican ranks and vote the comocratic bucks than obcurring because the democratic bare not been in power, and the democratic party has therefore not been able to commit the wrongs, even if it would like to have done so, under which the country now so grievously suffers. As a more party of opposition it necessarily becomes the party of referm. The evils in this country exist under the aupublican party. The democratic party opposing the republicans is everything they necessarily oppose them in these evils, that would be common sense logic."

And the Senator gave point to this view by the following homely illustration:—"A police officer takes up an offender. Now, the police officer does, undoubtedly, a meritorious, excellent act, which is for the good of the community, and yot it is by no means proof that if no offender. Now, the police offeer does, undoubtedly, a meritorious, excellent act, which is for the good of the community, and yet it is by no means proof that if the police officer were exposed to the same temptation he would have done exactly the same thing."

The application of this simile was obvious. Senator Bayard meant that even if the democrate were just as bad as the republicans they nevertheless acted for the good of the country is "taking up" the republicans as a police officer does a wrong doer.

I saked the Senator if the republican party could not wit over the reform elements by weeding out its bad men and thus secure the victory next November.

"As matters now stand," he replied, "reform in the republican party is impossible, because the corrupt elements in it are stronger than the pure." And smilingly he added, "It reminds one of a man afficied with a caseer. If the man keeps the cancer it will kill aim. If he cuts it he operation will so weaken him that he lakely to die, and he will have to remain on his sick bed many weeks anyhow. Subtract from the republican party the admitted corruptonists, the Shephard Ring in this District, the Custom House gang in New York, Kellogg, Casey, Butler, Pinchback, Whipper, Moses, Whittemore, flaves of Alabama, all that band of unclean carpet-baggars in the South, the Whistey Ring, the Secret Service gang, special Treasury agents, and—most dangerous of all—the large body of leading republicans and houses of soll—the large body of leading republican margatization had they not despared of the possibility of resorm from within its ranks."

I shaded to the probabilities of such men as Chiel Justice Chase, Jacob D. Cox, Carl Schurz, Charles Summer, Lyman Trumbull, and Tipton of Norbrakar These and hundreds of other nonest men would never have left the republican organization had they not despared of the possibility of resorm from within its ranks."

I shaded to the probabilities of the conditions, and asked the Senator when he considered the stronger country is not

I inquired what he considered the first and greatest reform necessary to be accomplished. He replied with much warmth:—

"I consider that no condition is so precedent to the wellars of this land as the recognition of the great fact that we are follow country mon; that Northerners and Southerners are not enemies, but citizens of a common beloved country. To have reform you must have co-operation; you must put it into the hearts of the people to have reform. You must instit a spirit of mutual concession and love into their minds instead of trying to fast their passions of hatred and revenge. I have been a lawyer and have tried many cases, and where I could settle a case by compression I always preferred it to trying it. Without this spirit of mutual concession and co-operation of all sections of the country no real, thorough reform is possible. After you have once accomplished this greatest of all reforms then you can turn to the other necessary reforms—financial reform, revenue reform, coonomic reform, moral reform, the restoration of the spirit of law in place of personal rule, and yet if such an animus as breatnes through the speeches of Messra Beutwell, Blaine, Morton and Conking shall be accepted and fellowed, then I say in despair that reform is impossible In one word, if I were asked what I regarded as the thing most needful for the times, I should say, "Bring the hearts of my occasty men once more together?"

The Sonator then releared to the present attempt to attruct the particle of my occasty men once more together?"

The Sonator then releared to the present attempt to the public particle of my sending a Senate committee down to Minnisappi, and said:—

"THEN FOUNDATION OF OUR GOVERNMENT is the will of the people. Our government has only one object—to have the will of the people. Presented to the presented to the said when the will of the people, and is it not better to have its good will than ill will? The republican party professed that it allowed the will of the Southern people to control its own destinies, and yet they have tried to put this will in chains by neare votes, coerced by one party, and by enforcement acts. While pretending to give the South a government of permission it has been one of coercion. The whole docurine of Congressional interference is founded upon district of the honesty of the State governments to do their duty by their ewn people. It is my greatest sin, in the eyes of the administration, that I tried to make the South and North Friends, and yet I say that these men who denounce me for that spirit never have loved this country so well and been so wrapped up is its welfare as I have been. I know that every libre of my nature is bound up in the welfare of this land."

These least sentences were spoken with much intensity of feeling.

ity of feeling.
"With what face," he exclaimed, "can a man say he is a friend of resorm and of honest government, who would vote for Billings in the place of Judge Durell, when it was proved that Billings with his own hand drew the very order to sense the Custom House, for which Judge Durell was threatened with impeachment, and resigned to escape it, and for giving Pinchback a seat in the Senate?"

OBITUARY.

WILLIAM BOBERTS. William Roberts, a well known and old resident of Brooklyn, died at his residence on Luqueer street, near Court, in that city, on Saturday night, after an illness of several weeks. Deceased, who was born in Ireland about fifty-five years ago, came to the United States when quite a young man, and shortly after his arrival enlisted in the United States Navy. He was coxswain of the late Admiral Gregory's cutter and captain of the foretop on board the flagship Raritan during the war with Mexice, and took part in all the engagements in which the marine forces were called upon to co-operate with the land detachments. He was wounded in one of the battles. Upon the termination of the war he settled in Brooklyn and entered upon the business of stevedoring, in which he was engaged up to the time of his final tilness. Mr. Roberts was the oldest and most skilled master stevedore in New York, and landed and discharged more cargoes than any other stevedore in
